HEIRESS BRIDE FOUND VICTIM OF ANEMIA

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Evening World says today that friends of Irving Berlin and his wife, the former Edith Mackay, are much concerned about reports that Mrs. Berlin has contracted a serious illness which will compel the Berlin to live in Arizona. The song writer and his wife are now in California with their baby.

Doctors have diagnosed Mrs. Berlin's illness, according to the reports, as pernicious anemia and it is feared she is on the verge of tuberculosis.

The Evening World says that there is a strong impression that the illness will bring about a reconciliation between Mrs. Berlin and her father, Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph system.

ILL. FATHER MAY FORGIVE

The father and daughter have been estranged since she married Berlin without Mackay's consent. William Douglas, a vice-president of the Mackay company, who acted as spokesman for Mr. Mackay at time of his daughter's marriage, said that Mr. Mackay would maintain his usual custom of having nothing to say.

Mrs. Joseph Blake, Mrs. Berlin's mother, had left her daughter's home for New York and could not be reached today.

MOTHER VISITS GEDZIUM IN DEATH HOUSE

Jerry Gedzium's aged mother went to State Prison today and there in the death house, where all women are in solitary, attempted to console her son, who is doomed to die in the electric chair next week.

Jerry the Pole—short, stocky, dark-haired and curly-haired little emigrant during the visit. When she had gone he resumed his seat upon his cot, resumed his incessant smoking of cigarettes and read a magazine.

The condemned man ate another heavy breakfast of cereal, eggs, toast and coffee, seemingly unconcerned over his fate. His wife, who has been steadfast in her loyalty and faith in him, brought him some consolation—the news that Governor Fuller has set the hearing for his plea for commutation of sentence for Thursday.

Tomorrow, while the other 219 prisoners at Charlestown are enjoying games, and there and the movies, Gedzium will be obliged to remain in his cell. If he does not care for the holiday dinner of smoked shoulder, cabbage, pudding, bread and coffee, he can order anything he desires.

Today he took further advantage of his deathhouse privilege and requested some oranges, which were supplied him by Warden Henry.

BUCKLEY, WITH DEATH GUN, LIVES LOVE TRAGEDY OVER AGAIN

'I CAN'T EXPLAIN FATAL SHOT NOW!' HE CRIES IN GRILL

him, instead of the military authorities at the actual scene.

Instead of his small revolver, deep in the heart of a wood, he had a .38-caliber, and in place of the girl he called his sweetheart, he had a young girl. But the same was that death death to Grace Mills was his hands as he stood before the jury box and hastily explained.

Across the two stands placed in front of the jury box, the attorney asked the jury to give him a chance to explain the fatal shot. He called forward Lee St. Jean, chief clerk of the district attorney's office.

"Buckley, I want you to place this young man in the position there was in at the time of the shooting," he said.

Buckley stepped from the witness stand and stood on the left side of the witness stand, facing the jury. He placed St. Jean on the right side of the witness stand, facing the jury. He placed St. Jean on the right side of the witness stand, facing the jury.

"I CAN'T EXPLAIN."

"I can't do the same thing now as I did then. I was excited. I grabbed it away, but I don't know how I was nervous."

Well, indicate the position your hand was in when the second shot—the accidental shot—as you say—was fired. "I can't do it. I just grabbed the gun like this."

He reached over with a questioning word and took the gun from St. Jean. Buckley's hand is that Grace Mills first shot was fired. But, second shot was an accident. But, however, the prosecution previously the same scene previously the same scene.

"Now you grabbed the gun before you took hold of Grace's coat," he was asked.

"Yes, sir."

"What did she do after the second shot was fired?"

"She didn't do anything."

"I WAS DAZED."

Later, taken in hand again by his own counsel, Atty. George L. Ellis word, Buckley once more denied aiming the shooting, but he insisted he was dazed.

Following this, the defense called on the government to present evidence on witnesses in relation to attack Buckley's defense.

In government exhibit testimony, Dr. Thomas F. Fisher, medical examiner, said he talked with Buckley at the Walworth Hospital and this was what Buckley said: "She shot herself. I finished her. She asked me to do it."

The doctor added that Buckley, when he made this statement, "was as rational as he was here in court yesterday, because in that state, but he was nervous."

Dr. Ralph Denney of the hospital staff testified that Buckley was at no time delirious. Buckley had been on the witness stand for three days. He said Buckley would not talk.

HIS DEATH PAINT

A statement alleged to have been made by Buckley, in which he said: "We had a suicide pact, we were going to shoot ourselves, but she was not to shoot me, but I shot her."

In this statement, alleged to have been made in several positions, Buckley said he was going to shoot her. He said the statement to commit suicide was made when the suicide pact was arranged, and he said he knew it was he who suggested the death pact.

Buckley was questioned about his statement after he said he was on the stand, but he stuck to his story. He said he was not going to shoot her. He said he was not going to shoot her. He said he was not going to shoot her.

"I TOLD HIS LAWYER."

"When was the first time you ever told anyone that force was used, and that she was shot?" he was asked as the prosecution repeated the vital part of his cross-examination.

"I told my lawyer," replied Buckley.

"Did you tell him, or did he tell you?"

"I told him. I told him to go to the police, after you had ordered me to go to the police, after you had ordered me to go to the police."

"No, sir, I told the police my lawyer said to go to the police, after you had ordered me to go to the police."

Boy Employs Lindy to Give Up Long, Risky Flights

Many Others Give Opinions as to Lone Eagle's New Experiments

Among the hundreds of letters received by the "Lindbergh Editor" was one from a newspaper, which said: "Lindbergh should continue to fly, but eliminate long non-stop flights."

Another letter said: "Lindbergh should eliminate stunt flying—acrobatics."

A third letter said: "Lindbergh should continue flying without any reservations whatever."

Here's Lindbergh Ballot

Secretary of War Davis wants Lindy to abandon long non-stop flights. Others want him to give up flying entirely. My opinion is that:

1—Lindbergh should give up flying entirely.....

2—Lindbergh should continue to fly, but eliminate long non-stop flights.....

3—Lindbergh should eliminate stunt flying—acrobatics.....

4—Lindbergh should continue flying without any reservations whatever.....

LINDY REACHES ST. LOUIS ON RETURN HOP

Lindbergh left Chicago at 6:04 a. m.

The start, scheduled for 6:30 a. m., was delayed by failure of the out-going mail to reach the airport from the downtown postoffice.

Lindbergh's Douglas biplane left west with the dawn, to swing southward a short distance out of Chicago. Following it closely was an other Douglas, with Thorne Sikes as pilot, and Phil Love, who placed one of the six planes from St. Louis yesterday, as passenger. Two other planes awaited the arrival of the biplane at St. Louis.

San Francisco and New York had planes before following.

IMPATIENT AT DELAY.

In the Lindbergh plane were 17 men, weighing approximately 900 pounds and filling the ship.

A reporter asked the pilot if he regretted much last night. Col. Lindbergh smiled as he placed the query in the "personal question" category, which makes a practice never to answer. Follow along, however, said Lindbergh, slept about three hours, although he appeared fresh when he reached the field.

After taking off, he said he was not tired. He sat in the office of the Robertson Corporation, which handles the St. Louis mail, picking up messages, sitting at a desk, and then, putting them aside. He consulted his watch frequently.

Just before taking off he was asked to comment on the fact that the plane had been in the air since he landed from St. Louis last night.

A new! A sponge in three oblong layers, with thick butter cream filling... striped ribbon cake with vanilla filling... golden sponge with luscious pineapple filling... or crisp toasted coconut filling... And wait till you taste Drake's Devil's Food Sponge with creamy vanilla filling!

Moreover, it's put up in a new way, in a special waxed paper that's transparent. (You can see those thick layers of rich butter cream filling right through the wrapper.)

But the cake itself is that same old-fashioned Sponge that Drake has always baked... from the recipe that calls for plenty of fresh eggs—strictly fresh—plenty of pure sweet milk—just what you would use if you were baking it in your own kitchen.
